

GERMANS OCCUPY BRUGES IN ADVANCE ON OSTEND; RENEW FIGHT IN FRANCE

ANOTHER FORCE OF GERMAN TROOPS MARCHES TOWARD FRENCH FRONTIER TO MEET ALLIES.

French Report Successes Near Verdun With Battle Waging Near German Border—Paris Claims Victories Near Belgian Frontier.

The Germans, who are moving on Ostend, are reported to have occupied Bruges, fifteen miles west of the former city. This report is confirmed from neutral sources.

A German official statement coming direct from Berlin by wireless, says that their troops in Belgium are now marching in part toward Ostend, and in part in a southwesterly direction toward the French frontier. There has been heavy fighting east of Soissons and the Argonne and the Germans have at no point lost ground. French claims of successes in the West are denied.

This afternoon's French official statement announces that the allies have made marked progress in the region of Lens and between Arras and Albert. In the center the allies, it is said, have advanced in the direction of Crayonne, while the French offensive movement on the north of St. Die has been checked.

A dispatch from Petrograd says that the Austro-German army was completely defeated today in the neighborhood of Warsaw, Russian Poland, suffering enormous losses.

A wireless message from Berlin says that it was officially announced today that the battle to the east of Warballen in Russian Poland continues after eleven days of fighting favorable to the Germans.

Diseases which have played an important part in most wars, are receiving the serious attention of the belligerents. Cholera is reported among the Russians and the Austrians.

Sweeping claims of victories over the Serbians and Montenegrins are made at Vienna. On the other hand, the Serbian government in an optimistic statement says that Belgrade is no longer in danger, and some government business is being resumed at the capital.

Foodstuffs is declared to be abundant, that its exports from Serbia is permitted.

Paris says that the fighting continues along the front from Warsaw to the east of the city. The fighting is reported to be in the hands of the French, and some government business is being resumed at the capital.

A Russian advance in East Prussia is suggested in a dispatch from Amsterdam which quotes a German correspondent as saying that the German army has evacuated the town for "military reasons and precautions."

London, Oct. 15.—A dispatch to the Central News from Amsterdam contains the report that the Germans have occupied Bruges, fifteen miles west of Ostend.

"In the region of Lens, and between Arras and Albert our progress has been marked."

"This transfer probably already has begun, as ordinary train traffic is delayed hours."

"From the same source, the correspondent says he learned that there is a large amount of sickness among the German troops."

"The plans for the occupation of Paris drawn up by the Germans before the battle of the Marne," continues the correspondent, "contemplated a demand for an indemnity of a billion dollars, and unless the sum was paid within a fortnight, property of equal value was to have been taken to Berlin including libraries, and retained there until full satisfaction of their indemnity was made."

"It is reported here from Stettin that German torpedo boat destroyers discovered six vessels of Norwegian, Danish and British nationality loaded with goods and provisions destined for London and Grimsby, England, and also for Russia."

"The Austrian stronghold of Przemyśl," the German official statement continues, "is now entirely freed of the Russian siege."

"The Russians are reported to be in a fortified position along the line of the Stry, Sanbor and Mygira in Galicia. The Austrians are now attacking the positions."

"In the meantime, the Austrians occupy Poronya after four days of fighting, and pursued the enemy in the direction of Wyszow. Smaller successes in the direction of the Vistula valley."

The Cologne Gazette correspondent at Rostenberg, which says that the departure was caused by military reasons and that the army was repulsed with heavy losses."

It is estimated that from 10 to 15,000 men are along the frontier from Scherwin to a point opposite Lysk, East Prussia. The Russians attack mostly at night, but are always repulsed with heavy losses.'

"There is no reason to fear that East Prussia is in any way endangered."

REPORT OF ALLIES' STAND IN NORTHERN FRANCE DIS- PELS RECENT PRE- VAILING GLOOM.

London, Oct. 15.—The gloom which has enveloped England since the news of Antwerp has been somewhat lightened by the news which was contained in an official communication that the allies are more than ready to clean their own in the furious fighting along the Franco-Belgian border, but the feeling of elation has been tempered by the growing realization that the Russian invasion of Serbia which was believed to be imminent must be postponed indefinitely pending the outcome of the battle in Russian Poland.

POSSIBLE GERMAN RAID

Russia, in the east, seems to have been compelled to follow the steps of her enemy in the west and sacrifice the fruit of her victory by sending reinforcements to another part of the long front.

Przemysl Still Invested.

The assumption of the Austro-German offensive in Galicia was an outcome of the action of Russia in sending heavy reinforcements to the river Niemen, evidently under the impression that German invasion of the Russian warld district was a real menace and not merely a diverting movement.

The withdrawal of Russian forces from western Galicia, however, is regarded here to be no complete first reported, for Vienna admits that Przemysl is still invested on one side, while Petrograd reports that the garrison of this fortress has been isolated by disease and is on the point of capitulation. Other dispatches from the Russian capital refer to activities along the Vistula, where several attacks are said to have been repulsed, and declare that the great battle is now under way, unless the Austro-German advance has been hampered by bad weather.

EVERY DAY GERMAN LIFE IS DESCRIBED

SOCIAL CONDITIONS DIFFER RADICALLY FROM THOSE OF UNITED STATES.

BERLIN BEFORE WAR

J. Francis Connors Writes First of Series of Articles on Conditions As They Exist in the Fatherland.

J. Francis Connors, who spent a year in study under Josef Lohmeier, the famous German pianist, in Germany just previous to the present great war which has shaken all Europe to its foundation, writes most interestingly of the social life and conditions that exist in Germany in times of peace.

This is the first of a series of articles on Germany and the present war which Mr. Connors will write for the Gazette and should prove most interesting reading owing to the fact that during his year's residence in Berlin he made many friends and when the war actually broke out was forced to remain there for some weeks in fact until long after the mobilization and actual fighting had commenced.

Mr. Connors is almost pro-German in his opinion of the present struggle owing to the fact he came in such close touch with the German people. His views on the subject of Germany's attitude in the war will be interesting to note as coming first hand and not being biased by rumors or reports of which he knows nothing.

The first difficulty encountered is the mastering that language, at least to that extent of an ordinary understanding of the native.

"Not being of German descent, naturally their tongue was by far the greatest obstacle to overcome when I landed at Cuxhaven, Germany and to board a train for Hamburg, a little over a year ago."

There for the first time did I realize what I had to contend with. However soon found a redeeming feature. One of every five Germans can speak or at least can understand the English language. This was my salvation and for the first few months I must add, never once was I rebuffed for stopping a citizen to make a few inquiries for necessary information.

The trains in Germany are quite different from American trains. The Germans divide their country into first, second and third classes. The coaches are divided into compartments, each built to accommodate nicely eight persons and their baggage. Coaches are marked according to their respective class. This class travel, for the poorer element, is somewhat crowded. Second class is good and about one third cheaper than first class. The railways are well regulated and being under government ownership, trains are invariably on time and if perchance are delayed, parties responsible are punished unless cause is shown that schedule disruption was unavoidable.

Germany is known to have the greatest military body in the world. Up to the beginning of the war the country was divided into five classes, i. e. Military class and the Civil class. Naturally the military class came first with the officers holding the high social standings of the empire. The German army on peace footing consisted of 1,400,000 officers and about 770,000 men. Military service is compulsory but has certain exemptions. A man or boy serving an apprenticeship in a bank is exempt, for example, and serves but for one year. A wealthy man, by hiring another to perform the various menial duties can eliminate some of the harder tasks but must undergo the regular drills and training. The officers are born not made. One must undergo a thorough training from early childhood and must pass a series of examinations to become a better class. To marry an officer, a woman must also be of parents of the social class and she must have a dowry of at least 60,000 marks or $15,000. This however is the lowest case in my recollection as many dowries range about 100,000 or $25,000.

An officer always wears his uniform and is always quick and smart in American parlance. "Sporn" is a word many too wear monies and to a newly arrived foreigner, an officer is quite an attraction despite the fact that there are many of them in Berlin. They are very dignified and chivalrous and serve as an example of manhood.

An interesting attraction for the sightseer is the changing of the guard at "New Wende" in the Lustgarten. This is the performance of the famous goosestep upon relieving the guard or changing the watch. It always attracts a very large crowd.

The Kaiser's birthday, January 27, is always a gala day. Diplomats and ambassadors in their robes of office attract attention while driven by their lackeys, in gaudy uniforms, while passing the Lustgarten, to pay their respects to the Kaiser.

All are in full regalia, excepting our American ambassador, Hon. James G. Thompson, who following the court etiquette, wears a conventional full dress evening attire.

The German people, as I have observed them, are quiet and industrious citizens. Since the foundation of the empire in 1871 there are no exponents of tranquility and peace, not a hint of rising in the world is not from love of adventure but the fruit of constant painstaking and ever plodding labor. Serious and conscientious, the German nation, is perhaps somewhat too serious in our American way of thinking, they do much and say little.

Everyone is aware that Germany has produced great philosophers, men of letters, scientists and musicians. America's appreciation of these cultural values of this Teutonic nation is widely shown, for do not we send, in hundreds, students and scholars from these shores to complete and receive the finishing touches of education in German schools?

Germany has a large number of poor people. Salaries are not to be compared with those paid physical laborers in the United States. But in comparison these people are not poor in the sense that the tenement district homes in New York and Chicago are.

Many of them think that American streets are paved with gold. They hear and believe the fabulous stories of the rapid rise of close friends who have left the Fatherland to cast their lot on western shores.

Naturally many have left their homes and have come here as the chance for advance by industry and perseverance is thought to be greater than at home.

But notwithstanding that they always have a "vesting" in "Das Vaterland" and as this war has proven, very many have attempted to return in the time of dire need but unfortunately for them, only a small handful has been able to do so. They and their loved ones give their lives for the Kaiser and the nation of their birth.

can way of thinking, they do much and say little.

DRILL IN THE RAIN FOR FREEPORT GAME

High School Eleven Held Practice Yesterday Despite Disagreeable Weather—Victory in Doubt.

Fifteen members of the high school football squad braved the inevitable weather yesterday afternoon, and under the direction of Coach Curtis and Captain Stewart, engaged in a hard fought drill that brought out valuable results. It was the first practice the blue and white cohorts experienced since their defeat at the hands of the Beloit Ironsides on last Saturday.

Freeport highs are to be Janesville's opposition on Saturday, at the "dry" town in Illinois. No statements are being uttered by any of the team members or followers, for a defeat is feared at the hands of the huskies from the Sucker state. Janesville were fortunate to trim their opponents at Freeport last fall, six to nothing, which gave them a good showing in Chicago, by virtue of the Chicago high schools losing to the Freeporters by large scores. Freeport have trimmed up Chicago high schools thus far this season and conditions look dubious for the Bower City warriors.

Speeded by plenty of weight, benefited and experienced men, the high school eleven have failed to show any scientific football this season. Of course the Beloit team that faced them last Saturday were heavier and showed the results of having played four games. They played together, and were a machine drilled to the minute. The hopes are that the locals will get down to business and develop a scoring machine that will be invincible against the remaining teams on their schedule this season. The backfield has the line shadowed considerably, and every effort by Coach Curtis to make a punctureless frontier is being made. Janesville will go to Freeport early Saturday morning. Practice will be held today and Friday afternoon at four o'clock.

FLORENCE SEARLES WEDS A WESTERNER

Evansville Young Lady Was United in Marriage at Home of Parents Yesterday.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Evansville, Oct. 15.—Married yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willis Searles, Miss Florence Searles of this city to Olin Michael of Silcott, Washington. Rev. Grabb of the Congregational church of this city officiated, using the ring service. The couple were attended only by little Kathryn Grabb, ring bearer. The bride wore a very becoming dress of white silk crepe de chine with overdress, the groom wearing the conventional black.

The ceremony was witnessed by only the intimates of the bride and groom and to these a pretty luncheon was served after the ceremony. The bride was a very earnest church worker and will be deeply missed, especially in the church where she put forth every effort to make all mission and Sunday school work a success. The groom is a prominent young fruit grower, residing at Silcott, Wis.

The couple left on the 10 o'clock train last night for Randolph, Mo., where they will visit Mrs. Caroline Hatch Baron and Mrs. Blanche Hess Baron, formerly of this city. From there they go at once to their home in Silcott, Wis.

Entertained. Mrs. O. C. Colony entertained twenty-four lady friends yesterday afternoon at a "domestic science" party, this concluding a series of novel entertainments given by her. The first feature of the afternoon's entertainment was especially interesting. Each of the guests was given three paper napkins out of which they were instructed to fashion an apron and which were equally interesting. Artistic results prizes would be given. Mrs. Fred Baker and Miss Andrews were voted most successful. This was followed by an anagram contest, which was equally interesting. At six o'clock a very dainty lunch was served and the afternoon was a decided success.

Annual Meeting. The annual meeting and supper of the Congregational church were held Tuesday evening, Oct. 13, in the church dining hall, with about 150 present. The reading of reports from every society in the church was received and an especially interesting report on the state convention at Sparta was given by Mrs. Anna Green. The financial report revealed that every obligation of the church had been met.

The reports were followed by the election of the following officers: Trustees—re-elected to succeed themselves—Will Baldwin, C. J. Fear-sall.

Treasurer, re-elected to succeed himself—R. D. Hartley. Secretary, re-elected—Harry Blake-ly.

Mrs. James D. McShane of Madison arrived today for several days' visit with Mrs. E. P. Colton. She was met in honor at the annual meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the Congregational church, held today.

The Woman's Relief Corps will serve tea to their supporters in the G. A. R. hall Saturday evening, Oct. 17.

Mrs. Mary Hayward attended the wedding of Mark Hull in Edgerton Wednesday.

TO EYE SUFFERERS---EVERYWHERE

Read What These People Say the Optona Prescription Has Done for Their Eyes.

IT MAY DO AS MUCH FOR YOURS THOUSANDS ARE USING IT DAILY

The Optona prescription for the eyes has quickly become the most popular eye treatment before the public. It has attracted the attention of thousands who have eye troubles and it is used daily by other thousands who realize that the eyes need care and that this soothing, healing, comforting lotion makes their eyes feel fine and prepares them to stand the strain of their daily work. Read what these users of this prescription say it has done for them, then cut out the prescription and have it filled by the Smith Drug Co., in Janesville, or by any other druggist.

HAD EYE TROUBLES FOR YEARS, NOW READS WITHOUT GLASSES.

Optona Prescription Brings Quick Relief

About four years ago I saw an ad in the Philadelphia papers referring to Optona, and as I have had eye troubles for years, I purchased a bottle. I was not at all sure it would do me any good, but I concluded to try it. I supposed I was a victim of the "eye doctor" and the results were astonishing. The 50-cent bottle gave me $50 worth of relief. I have been able to read without glasses for the last year and I am losing no time in letting my friends know the relief I have had from using a great remedy—Frank Morrey, Philadelphia, Pa.

AFTER WEARING GLASSES ELEVEN YEARS

And Losing Thousands of Dollars Because of Poor Eyesight Optona Prescription Brings Relief to Railroad Engineer.

I am the first person, I think, that has written in our city but will say if others that are afflicted with weak eyes will listen to me I am sure you will find a large market here for your remedy. I have worn glasses for about 11 years. I have been a locomotive engineer for thirty years, but I have been retired on account of my eyes. I was paid $100 per month, but I have been reduced from 200 or more per month to 55 per month. Had I been in possession of good eyesight I would have been several thousand dollars better off today.—W. J. Phillips, San Bernardino, Calif.

HAD EYE TROUBLES AFTER MEASLES

Optona Prescription Restores to Perfect Health.

I saw your advertisement and as I have always had an eye trouble since I had the measles and could never get any relief, even with glasses, I concluded to try your treatment and have used about one-third of your 50-cent bottle. I must say my eyes are in perfect health. Before I started using your Optona lotion, I had had a bad case of granular eye. When I rose in the morning my eyes would be glued shut and always inflamed eyelids. Since I took your treatment I have not been bothered at all. I can't say too much for Optona. C. R. Short, Grove City, Penn.

LAID ASIDE GLASSES AFTER USING THE OPTONA PRESCRIPTION.

I wish to express my satisfaction with your treatment and exercises which I have used. I have had aside my glasses and believe that I can do without them entirely.—L. L. Krug, Chattanooga, Tenn.

If you wear glasses, or if your eyes trouble you; if they are inflamed or overworked or tired; if they itch and burn or in any way make you conscious that you have eyes, go to your druggist and ask him to fill the following prescription:

OPTONA, 5 GRAINS; WATER, 2 OUNCES.

Use as an eye bath from two to four times a day. It is probable that you will join the ranks of the thousands who now feel that the Optona eye bath is a necessary part of their daily toilet and of their preparation for their day's work.

You should bestow thoughtful care upon your eyes at the very first indication of any trouble. Healthy eyes and good eyesight are among the most precious of man's possessions. Do not neglect your eyes. Delays are dangerous and neglect often leads to irreparable loss.

Railroad Passenger Locomotive Engineer Who Passed Every Test Without Glasses Says the Optona Prescription is a Godsend to the World.

Reading your ad in the Minnesota Journal 4 months ago I got a 60 cent box from Grand Forks and followed your directions up to time of writing. I am reading now without glasses as in my position as a railroad passenger locomotive engineer we must have good sight of course. I only used the glasses in reading as I run from Neche, N. D. to Winnipeg daily. The Government eye test was held on the 26th and I passed every thing O. K. without the use of glasses. This Optona is a Godsend to the world at large. H. Rafferty, Locomotive Engineer, Neche, N. D.

LONG DISTANCE GLASSES LAID ASIDE ALTOGETHER.

Can Count the Fluttering Leaves on Trees Across the Street—Following Prescription Did it

I have been using Optona for the past two months about 4 times a day. It has followed the directions and feel greatly benefited by the use of Optona. Began to feel the benefit in a very few days after beginning treatment. I can do both near and distant work without strain. I have been suffering from overtaxing tired eyes which, of course, induced fierce headaches. I have worn glasses for several years, both for distance and near work, without them I could not read my own name on an envelope or the typewriting on the machine before me. I can do both now. I have laid aside my old distance glasses altogether. I can count the fluttering leaves on the trees across the street now, which for several years have looked like a dim green blur to me. I cannot express my joy at what it has done for me. I am writing on typewriting on an average of five hours every day, sometimes eight, so you see I can appreciate what Optona has done for me.—Mrs. F. C. Gossow, Mill Creek, Okla.

'OPTONA SURELY HAS DONE WONDERS FOR ME.

I have been using Optona for about 6 weeks and am now using the third bottle. After I used Optona about a week, everything seemed much brighter and I only had headaches twice since starting to use it. Before, I had headaches about twice a week. At first used it three or four times a day. Now I only use it one or two times a day. Mrs. John Krantz, Navarre, Ohio.

BELOIT NORTH ENDS PLAY HERE SUNDAY

Cardinals Have Last Chance of Annexing Title by Defeating Beloit and Tying Series Count.

On Sunday afternoon the victorious Beloit North Ends, under General Eddie Lenahan will invade the Cardinal stronghold at the Association grounds and the most bitter battle of the year between the two forces is expected to result. Since the Cardinals were routed two weeks ago by the inglorious score of 17 to 1—Captain Porter and the board of strategists with the council of war have held sessions, and mapped out a tactical plan of overwhelming the North End advance for the title of Southern Wisconsin and northern Illinois.

It is the deciding combat and the Beloit nine fighting from the defense, will use their heaviest artillery and ammunition to check the Beloiters. Crandall and Hall are named as the battery to halt the North Ends and the Milton Butler is anxious to obtain redress for the mauling given him in the last game. At short Hyatt is slated for short with Captain Porter at first and Ryan at third. Beloit will have the same aggregation that proved to be sufficient and too much for the Janesville squad last game as the score indicates.

Much depends on the weather for it keeps up his present pace of dreary atmosphere conditions, it is doubtful if the game will be staged. Local fans, a thousand strong promise to be on hand in this important siege to back the Cardinals in the last attempt of the year to annex the title and wipe out the defeat which is the biggest spot on their record for the season.

Only Creditable Fears. The worst hurt of all, and the one which leaves the most hideous scar, is to be wounded in character by cowardice. Fear of being afraid or of doing wrong are the only fears that are creditable.

The Famous Sealed-Bonnet Car

To Make 7,500 Miles—or 250 Miles Per Day for 30 Consecutive Days

Here's the greatest test ever devised for an automobile. The bonnet or hood of this car was sealed Wednesday, Sept. 23rd, 1914, by Chief of Police Gleason at the City Hall. And started on a 7,500-mile run to make 250 miles per day for 30 consecutive days. No other automobile manufacturer over attempted a similar daily distance record for his car for 30 days with sealed bonnet. This is unique in motor car records! Buy this artistic car will successfully accomplish its prodigious task. Note "two-unit three-point suspension construction" and the super-excellence of its making will assure that.

And when it finishes its tremendously long run in Pittsburgh one month hence, this sturdy car will have faithfully carried out all the exacting requirements imposed upon it. Some car to do that! Just a "stock" car too—identical with those on our floor—this we are prepared to demonstrate to you—to let you drive yourself. We know because of the 35,000 Mitchells in use and the sixteen years motor car manufacturing experience back of them. These tell us that Mitchell 1915 models will stand up under any reasonable task—they're sure, reliable, speedy, lightweight and attractive.

YOST DEVELOPS CLASSY TALENT TO BUCK HARVARD OCTOBER 31

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE) Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 15.—Four weeks of the kind of drill that usually precedes an end season game have brought out some unexpected football genius in the Michigan football camp, and supporters of the Maize and Blue are saving their spare change to back the team which goes up against Harvard, October 31, as a result. Everybody in Ann Arbor was confident that the 1914 back field would be brilliant. So far it has been ahead of expectations. Hughtitt and Galt, both veterans, together with Maubetsch, Splawn, Caplett, Bastian, Ziegler, McNamara, Heutel and Butler, all practically new men, have stepped in to help fill the gap left by the graduation of Craig and Corber in the ranks behind the line. A definite combination has been worked out from this list, but early games give Hughtitt the quarterback's job without a doubt, while Splawn, Galt and Maubetsch seem to have the job on the halves, with Splawn at 2 back.

THREE BRIGHT STARS ON YOST'S SQUAD.

"Tommy Hughtitt, third year on varsity, quarterback, star of last year's team along with Jimmie Craig. Has played on varsity baseball team for two years, at third base. Was married last fall unexpectedly to Elizabeth Meldrum, a co-ed. Will be Michigan's chief candidate for All-American this year. Lawrence Splawn, member of last year's freshman varsity team, Fullback. Being developed as a kicker to oppose Brickley. Did phenomenal kicking, passing and carrying on fresh team, and has earned rank with Hughtitt this year as strong offensive player. Sophomore in university literary college. James Raynsford, captain. Played at guard last year, but is now being used at center, to take place of Captain "Bubbles" Patterson, of 1913 eleven, who graduated. Third year on varsity. Plays forcibly and is learning to pass accurately. Is great on defensive.

The line will be Yost's real enigma. Only three "all" forwards returned to school this fall—Captain Raynsford, center; Lyons, end, and Cochran, guard. All of these men performed acceptably last year and barring injuries, they will retain their positions. There are five or six 200-pounders in the batch of recruits trying out for the remaining line jobs, and it is in these men that the hopes of Wolverine enthusiasts are concentrated.

Beuton is a member of last year's freshman varsity team who seems to have clinched one of the places between Raynsford and Cochran. He plays guard and assistant coach "German" Schulz is priming him on the tricks of blocking. Quail and McHale tip the beam over 200, and may land on guard or tackle. Sinton played on the reserves last year, and his showing at guard this fall has been almost of varsity caliber. Dunne, Epton, James, Hildner, Staats and Cohn are competing for the ends, and all of this list have done work far above par.

ALLEYS WILL OPEN EARLY NEXT WEEK

Y. M. C. A. Bowlers Will Take Notice. Courses Are Being Refinished This Week by Expert.

Bowling enthusiasm will in another week be the predominating sport at the Y. M. C. A. if present plans materialize. Bowlers who won a name for themselves on the courses last winter, are preparing for an even more successful season this year, not to speak of the scores of second-raters who share daily in the favorite pastime. All this week the alleys have been opened for an expert, from Chicago, who is planing, scraping, sandpapering, leveling and smoothing them up in first class shape, in addition to laying three coats of prepared white shellac and two coats of enamel polish. The gutters and ball are being cared for, and by next week the alleys that were new last fall, will be in the same shape again, and ready for many more hard-fought matches. The billiard and pool room has been opened for the winter months. Herbert Walaska will have charge of the tables, and will be in the room all day to allow professional men, business men or senior members to participate and use the tables at any hour. The classes under the seniors may use the tables only from four in the afternoon to ten at night. The room will be closed at ten o'clock.

Women have been found wanting in the state of California, the home of suffrage. Eleven feminine skipper were entered in a bang-and-go-back yacht race the other day at the South Coast Yacht club. Los Angeles. The rules said they must start out, sail up the short as fast as possible, and then start back at a given signal. Seven of the eleven failed in the first leg, for obvious reasons. They were disqualified. Three members of the regatta committee, who made the decision, left town for the week-end.

PARTISAN TARIFF.
The Christian Science Monitor deplores the advent of the tariff into partisan politics again. It was one of the campaign slogans of democracy way back when "Hick" was a little boy, but except for the terms of Grover Cleveland they have not had the golden opportunity of really advancing the principles of really laws until the present time. The Monitor says:
"It is not difficult to state the difference between the attitude of the administration at Washington and that of the opposition with reference to the proposed levy of a tax for federal purposes intended to produce an additional revenue of $100,000,000. The president, speaking as well for his party as for the government, has declared in an address before congress, in effect, that the ordinary revenues of the nation would have been sufficient were it not for the European disturbance that
has operated to reduce customs duties.
The republican leaders say, in effect,
that even if there had been no European war the ordinary revenues of the nation would have been sufficient were it not for the European disturbance that
has operated to reduce customs duties.
In effect, that even if there had been no European war the ordinary revenues
of the nation would have been sufficient
were it not for the European disturbance that has operated to reduce customs duties. The republican leaders say,
in effect, that even if there had been
no European war the ordinary revenues
of the nation would have been sufficient
were it not for the European disturbance that has operated to reduce customs duties."

President Wilson insists the "war tariff" measure be passed before congress adjourns and it probably will.
The democrats have a majority and are using steam roller methods to see that the president's orders are carried out. But there is a hereafter coming and some of the present advocates of the measure may not be in Washington when the next congress convenes.

One can not help but admire the tenacity of the Belgians in their battle for existence in the face of overwhelming odds. One little nation apparently pitted against the skill and ingenuity of a great people whose leaders brought war down to a science and eliminated all the ancient elements of chance from the game.

Russia may have its millions of soldiers, but it is taking a long time to get them into real action and accomplish what they were expected to do in a few weeks. Meanwhile the German forces along the French border are giving the combined armies of England and France all they want to think about.

Phillip pleases the voters because he tells them plain, cold facts. He doesn't mince matters with the men he talks to and his talk rings honest and is couched in words of conviction.
The voters of Wisconsin are thinking for themselves this year.

It is all right to talk prosperity and good times and the next thing to obtain them. It is like the woman who said to the tramp: "That dog won't bite." The tramp replied: "You say so. I believe you, but does the dog know about it?"

On The Spur of The Moment
Contributed.
Said Austria to poor little Serbia,
I'm really surprised at the nervia:
If you're not good and do as you should,
There won't be enough left to ob-servia.

Said the Kaiser to Emperor Nicholas,
The way you behave is ridiculous:
If your troops mobilize our anger
will rise
And the way you'll get licked will sure Ticholas.

Said the Frenchman Sacre Parley-vois.
Count us in that jamboree touxi:
We've long wanted chance to make Germany dance.

"Blast" me "Heyes," says Uncle John Bull.
Just let me get in Kaiser Bill's wall."
I'll shake him by the neck, till his heels break his neck,
And he'll soon get his Dutch Buley full.

Then Belgium, Holland and Switz.
Each threw a succession of fitz,
And Turkey and Greece both fac-
tured the peace.
And pounded each other to bits,
But Uncle Sam was too wise
To get tangled in any war tize.
He managed all right to keep out of the fight.
And furnished the rest their supplies.

William of Wied.
Now and then some mortal somewhere in the world—some mortal essentially no more partisan or political than the process adopted for meeting like necessities in the conduct of a factory, a mercantile institution or a bank. There is no real relationship between partisan politics and the revenues. There should not be, believe as there is today, as there has been for years and as there will continue to be in the future, unless the system is radically reformed, be any sensitive of relationship. Political parties as such should not be permitted to meddle with the tariff any more than they are permitted to meddle with the currency or the gold reserve.
They probably will meddle with it and continue to use it as a convenience so long as the people permit them to do. How long that will be is something that seemingly rests for the present largely with President Wilson.

RULE OR RUIN.
Apparently the great idea in the minds of the ultras is "rule or ruin."
They have been accustomed to ruling so long that the idea of not being able to control republican party affairs has led them into the present campaign to either wreck or control politics in the state. They have selected J. J.
Blaine, the man who never stayed put in his life, the renegade republican, the Wilson advocate, as their standard-bearer and have established headquarters in the offices of the Wilson leader in Wisconsin, defeated candidate for governor and repudiated boss of democracy—John Ayward—and hope to win by endorsing a set of amendments that even a Chinese highlander would turn pale to advocate in the light of day. It is a rule or ruin policy and it is up to the voters of the state to give this "raug" a stinging pukbe they will not soon forget.

THE "SWAN'S BATH."
When the ancient Vikings went down into the sea in their long ships they called it taking a "Swan's bath."
They sailed from their frozen northern coasts to the sunny south, inspired terror in the hearts of the Romans, sailed through Constantinople, visited in Egypt and finally settled down on the coasts of France, where in fertile Normandy they gained land and tribute. They conquered England and left their imprint upon modern civilization. Today the German people are on a road to conquest. They have not come out in their long ships but with their great guns they have struck terror to modern civilization, have captured cities, leveled supposedly impregnable fortresses and driven a country's government into a foreign nation for safety. It is history repeating itself, only instead of the Scandinavians of the north it is the Scandinavians of the south, who this time are taking the "Swan's bath," only their ships are motor cars and their sea one of blood.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

"I DIDN'T THINK"

A WOMAN who sometimes comes to her home has a habit of making what she cheerfully calls "breaks."

For instance, she will forget that Mrs. R.'s daughter is suing for a divorce and that Mrs. A., who does not believe in divorces, is very sensitive about the matter, and in her presence will bring up the latest divorce scandal of the newspaper world and comment on it in a way that to Mrs. A.'s oversensitized feelings must be like a sledgehammer falling on bad nerves.

Or she will forget that Mrs. L.'s brother is a dipsomaniac and the father of four boys, and will tell Mrs. L. at length about a sweet girl who is going to marry a man who drinks. She thinks it is a terrible mistake, she says. Such people ought to be taken in hand by society and restrained from marrying and having children, for they are so sure to inherit their father's weakness.

When she remembers or is reminded afterwards what an unfortunate topic she chose, of course she has the grace to be sorry. "Wasn't it terrible?" she says. "I didn't think."

And apparently she considers that she has sufficiently excused herself.

But she hasn't.

Moreover, her statement isn't true. Of course she thought. Human beings always think. That's the price of having a mind. We can't stop thinking for a moment through all our lives except when we sleep, and even then most of us still carry on a kind of subconscious thinking which we prefer to call dreaming.

It isn't because she fails to think that she tramples on people's exposed mental nerves—it's because she thinks only of herself and what she is interested in when a woman enters a room and finds her a chair; another fails to assume that responsibility. One man remembers to say "Good night" to his hostess; the other forgets. "I don't think about those little things," he explains with an evident feeling of justifying himself.

The other man DOES think. He is not so concentrated upon his own interests and his own pleasures that he cannot remember the little graces of manner that make daily life sweeter and more gracious. In plain words, he is not so selfish.

"I didn't think" is used to cover a multitude of sins. It cannot really cover one.

It is merely another and prettier phrase for "I didn't care," for if we cared, we would think.

If we could see our failure to think in this light and recognize it as selfishness instead of a perfectly excusable forgetfulness perhaps we should be more troubled when we fail to think, and make a greater effort not to do so.

Heart and Home Problems

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Would you please tell me who should speak first, the boy or the girl?

(2) How should a girl make up with a boy when they are mad and the girl got mad first?

(3) Are girls of fifteen and sixteen too young to go with fellows?

(4) The boy I go with told a bunch of mine that he loved me but he won't tell me. How can I find out for sure?

TWO GIRLS.

The girl I should speak first. This rule need not be strictly adhered to, however, where there has been a long acquaintance.

(5) The next time you meet him smile pleasantly. If he seems to be in good humor, you might invite him to come over some evening. Don't seem too anxious. Be perfectly natural, and act toward him the same as you did before you had your falling out.

(6) Girls of that age are certainly too young to have regular beaux. It's much nicer to go out with a crowd of young folks; don't you think so?

(7) I think, dearie, that you are really too young to care whether he loves you or not. Be friends with this boy and forget all about love for two or three years, anyway.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of twenty-one and have been going with a young man for the past six months, whom I think very much of. About three weeks ago we had a little misunderstanding and he has not called since. He says he is not angry and speaks very friendly when he meets me.

Now I want to know how I can regain his respect, as I know that

MRS. LITTLETON WINS HER FIGHT

Mrs. Martin W. Littleton.

After carrying on unceasingly for three years a campaign to have the United States government purchase the home of Thomas Jefferson at Monticello, Mrs. Martin W. Littleton, wife of Congressman Littleton of New York, has at last won a victory. Representative Levy, the owner of Monticello, has finally consented to sell the estate to the government for $500,000, though he values it at over twice that sum.

food grinder; add one pint tomatoes, one egg, one cup milk, salt and pepper to taste. Bake in baking dish.

Divinity Fudge—Beat the whites of three eggs. Now beat three cups sugar, one-half cup water and one cup corn syrup till it forms a soft ball. Pour half into the beaten egg. Boil the other half until brittle, pour in with rest and stir. This makes a delicious candy.

Veal Fricassee—One pound of veal from forequarter, cut in small pieces; brown in savory dripping until well browned and browned. Cover with cold water. Cook slowly and tender. Season to taste. Thicken gravy and pour into casserole or baking dish. Make biscuit of one pint flour, three teaspoons baking powder, salt, two tablespoons lard, enough water or milk to make a soft dough. Cut into small biscuits and drop into the boiling hot gravy. Set in the oven and bake until a nice brown (about a half hour). This gives a good meat meal for six persons.

Mock Mince Pie—One-half cup molasses, two-thirds cup water, two-thirds cup vinegar, one cup sugar, one cup bread crumbs, one cup chopped raisins, one tablespoon cloves, one tablespoon cinnamon, one nutmeg grated, butter size of an egg. Mix this and put it on stove to heat thoroughly, stirring often. Bake with two crusts.

Red Flummery—Stew two quarts cranberries in a very little water till they are all to pieces. Then strain juice through a linen bag and sweeten it with one pound brown sugar. Take out a pint of the cranberry juice and make into a batter with one-half pound ground rice, stirred in gradually. It must be quite smooth and free from lumps. Then put remainder of juice into saucepan, set in on hot fire and while boiling stir in gradually the rice batter. When it has boiled until quite thick and very smooth, strain it again, and put into molds to congeal. Eat with sweetened cream.

Pumpkin Pie—One cup cooked pumpkin drained dry, one and one-fourth cups milk, one egg, three-fourths cup sugar, one-fourth teaspoon ginger, three-fourths teaspoon cinnamon, one-fourth teaspoon salt.

The Wife's Money

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

"Well, Sue, here is your monthly stipend," said a god-fathered man, tossing his pay envelope into his wife's lap.

"Why, it isn't all here," exclaimed the woman in surprise.

"No, give me the first inning," she pleaded, her head on his shoulder. He put his arm around her and together they went to the living room.

"Now, you sit there and I will take this little rocker at your feet for that's where I am," she added smiling up into his face.

"I want to tell you what I have been thinking tonight. It was not light entertainment, either. I would gladly have exchanged it for a lighter variety. You have been so unfarmly kind and good natured that I never realized that I was imposing my standards on you, that alone was deciding how all the money was to be spent."

"Now, see here, Sue," he interrupted, "you stop blaming yourself. I am to blame, for did I not ask you to take all the money and save it for me? I could have nothing. I had tried it for the three years we were engaged. It simply wasn't in me. All we have in the bank is your work."

She shook her head unconvinced and continued: "I close the plays we saw or the books we bought. My taste decided the rug or chair we chose."

"You surely spent little enough on yourself. You do all your own sewing, trim your hair and renovate the furniture. I always said you could make one dollar do the work of five."

"I'll tell you what," broke in Sue, "you give me an allowance!"

She laughed merrily over the proposal.

"We will each have the same allowance. I can get tickets occasionally for my kind of theatrical entertainment. You choose whatever you like. You can treat me to vaudeville once in a while to show you forgive me for my tyranny."

He drew her face to his as he said, "We'll go to that same show tomorrow. It is great."

"Good! Now let us forage for a lunch. I was too unhappy to eat any dinner after you left."

While he helped in the kitchen she decorated the table with the new luncheon set.

"For this is a fresh start," she said, and he added, "We are going to do team work after this."

"What's all this?" he cried gaily.

The Last Shot

By FREDERICK PALMER

To her it was equivalent to saying that she had tricked him into sending men to be killed in order to please her. She despised herself for the way she confided in her; yet she had to go on keeping his confidence, returning a tender glance with one that held out hope. She learned not to shudder when she spoke of a loss of only ten thousand. In order to rally herself when she grew faint-hearted to her task, she learned to picture the lines of his face hard-set with five-against-three brutality, while in comfort he ordered multitudes to death, and in contrast, to recall the smile of Dellama, who asked his soldiers to undergo no risk that he would not share. And after every success he would remark that he was so much nearer Engadir, that position of the main line of defense whose weakness she had revealed.

"Four Engadir!" he came to say. "Then we shall again profit by your information; that is, unless they have fortified since you received it."

"They haven't. They had already fortified!" she thought. She was always seeing the mockery of his words in the light of her own knowledge and her own part, which never escaped her consciousness. One chamber of her mind was acting for him; a second chamber was perfectly aware that the other was acting.

"One position more—the Twin Boulder Redoubt, it is called," he announced at last. "We shall not press hard in front. We shall drive in masses on either side and storm the flanks."

"This she was telephoning to Lanstron a few minutes later and having, in return, all the news of the Browns. The sheer fascination of knowing what both sides were doing exerted its spell in keeping her to her part.

"They've lost four hundred thousand men now, Lanny," she said.

"And we only a hundred thousand. We're whittling them down," answered Lanstron.

"Whittling them down! What a ghastly expression!" she gasped. "You are as bad as Westerling and I am worse than either of you! I announced the four hundred thousand as if they were a score—a score in a game in my favor. I am helping, Lanny! All my sacrifice isn't for nothing!" she asked for the hundredth time.

"Immensurably. You have saved us many lives!" he replied.

CHAPTER XVII.

Thumbs Down for Bouchard.

Haggard and at bay, Bouchard faced the circle of frowns around the polished expanse of that precious hairloom, the dining-room table of the Gallands. The dreaded reckoning of the apprehensions which kept him restlessly awake at night had come at the next staff council after the fall of the Twin Boulder Redoubt. With the last approach to the main line of defense clear, one chapter of the war was finished. But the officers did not manifest the elation that the occasion called for, which is not saying that they were discouraged. They had no doubt that eventually the Grays would dictate peace in the Browns' capital. Exactly stated, their mood was one of repressed professional irritation. Not until the third attempt was Twin Boulder Redoubt taken. As far as results were concerned, the nicely planned first assault might have been a stroke of strategy by the Browns to drive the Grays into an impassable fire zone.

Bouchard faced the circle of frowns.

"The trouble is we are not informed!" exclaimed Turcas, opening his thin lips even less than usual, but twisting them in a significant manner as he gave his words a rasping emphasis. The others hastened to follow his lead with equal candor.

"Exactly. We have no reports of their artillery strength, which we had greatly underestimated," said the chief of artillery.

"Our maps of their forts could not be less correct if revealed to us for purposes of deceit. Again and again we have thought that we had them surprised, only to be surprised ourselves. In short, they know what we are doing and we don't know what they are doing!" said the tactical expert.

There the chief of the aerostatic division took the defensive.

"They certainly don't learn our plans with their planes and dirigibles!" he declared energetically.

"Hardly, when we never see them over our lines."

"The Browns are acting on the defensive in the air as well as on the earth!"

"But our own planes and dirigibles bring little news," said Turcas. "I mean, those that return," he added puntingly.

"And few do return. My men are not wanting in courage!" replied the chief aerostatic officer. "Immediately we get over the Brown lines the Browns, who keep circling to and fro, are on us like hawks. They risk anything to bring us down. When we descend low we strike the fire of their high-angle guns, which are distributed the length of the frontier. I believe both their aerial fleet and their high-angle artillery were greatly underestimated. Finally, I cannot reduce my force too much in scouting or they might take the offensive."

"Another case of not being informed!" concurred Turcas, returning grimly to his point.

He looked at Bouchard, and every one began looking at Bouchard. If the Gray tacticians had been outplayed by their opponents, if their losses for the ground gained exceeded calculations, then it was good to have a scapegoat for their professional mistakes. Bouchard was Westerling's choice for chief of intelligence. His blind loyalty was pleasing to his superior, who, hitherto, had promptly silenced any suggestion of criticism by repeating that the defensive always appeared to the offensive to be better informed than itself. But this time Westerling let the conversation run on without a word of excuse for his favorite.

Each fresh reproach from the staff, whose opinion was the only god he knew, was a dagger thrust to Bouchard. At night he had lain awake worrying about the leak; by day he had sought to trace it, only to find every clue leading back to the staff. Now he was as confused in his shame as a sensitive schoolboy. Vaguely, in his distress, he heard Westerling asking a question, while he saw all those eyes staring at him.

"What information have we about Engadir?"

"I believe it to be strongly fortified!" stammered Bouchard.

"You believe! You have no information?" pursued Westerling.

"No, sir," replied Bouchard. "Nothing—nothing new!"

"We do seem to get little information," said Westerling, looking hard at Bouchard in silence—the combined silence of the whole staff.

This public reproach could have but one meaning. He should soon receive a note which would thank him politely for his services, in the stereotyped phrases always used for the purpose, before announcing his transfer to a less responsible post.

"Very little, sir!" Bouchard replied doggedly.

"There is that we had from one of our aviators whose machine came down in a smash just as he got over our infantry positions on his return," said the chief aerostatic officer. "He was in a dying condition when we picked him up, and, as he was speaking with the last breaths in his body, naturally his account of what he had seen was somewhat incoherent. It would be of use, however, if we had plans of the forts that would enable us to check off his report intelligently."

"Yet, what evidence have we that Partow or Lanstron has done more than to make a fortunate guess or show military insight?" Westerling asked. "There is the case of my own belief that Bordir was weak, which proved correct."

"Last night we got a written telegraphic staff message from the body of a dead officer of the Browns found in the Twin Boulder Redoubt," said the vice-chief, "which showed that in an hour after our plans were transmitted to our own troops for the first attack they were known to the enemy."

"That looks like a leak!" exclaimed Westerling. "A leak, Bouchard, do you hear?" He was frowning and his lips were drawn and his cheeks mortified with red in a way not pleasant to see. Stiffening in his chair, a flash of desperation in his eye, Bouchard's body, long hand" gripped the table edge. Every one felt that a sensation was coming.

"Yes, I have known that there was a leak!" he said with hoarse, painful deliberation. "I have sent out every possible tracer. I have followed up every sort of ciew. I have transferred a dozen men. I have left nothing undone!"

"With no result?" persisted Westerling impatiently.

"Yes, always the same result: That the leak is here in this house—here in the grand headquarters of the army under your very noses. I know it is not the telegraphers or the clerks. It is a member of the staff!"

"Have you gone out of your head?" demanded Westerling. "What staff officer? How does he get the information to the enemy? Name the persons you suspect here and now! Explain, if you want to be considered sane!"

Here was the blackest accusation that could be made against an officer! The chosen men of the staff, tested through many grades before they reached the inner circle of cabinet secrecy, lost the composure of a council. All were leaning forward toward Bouchard breathless for his answer.

"There are three women on the grounds," said Bouchard. "I have been against their staying from the first. I—"

He got no further. His words were drowned by the outburst of one of the younger members of the staff, who had either to laugh or choke at the picture of this deep-eyed, spectral sort of man, known as a woman-hater, in his revelation of the farcical source of his suspicions.

"Why not include Clarissa Eileen?" some one asked, starting a chorus of satirical exclamations.

"How do they get through the line?"

"Yes, past a wall of bayonets?"

"When not even a soldier in uniform is allowed to move away from his command without a pass?"

"By wireless?"

"Perhaps by telepathy!"

"Unless," said the chief of the aerostatic division, grinning, "Bouchard lends them the use of our own wires through the capital and around by the neutral countries across the Brown frontier!"

"But the correct plans and location of their forts and the numbers of their heavy guns and of their planes and dirigibles—your failure to have this information is not the result of any leak from our staff since the war began," said Turcas in his dry, penetrating voice, clearing the air of the smoke of scattered explosions.

"All were staring at Bouchard again. What answer had he to this? He was in the box, the evidence stated by the prosecutor. Let him speak!"

He was fairly beside himself in a paroxysm of rage and struck at the air with his clenched fist.

"Lanstron!" he cried.

"There's no purpose in that. He can't hear you!" said Turcas, dryly as ever.

"He might, through the leak," said the chief aerostatic officer, who considered that many of his gallant subordinates had lost their lives through Bouchard's inefficiency. "Perhaps Clarissa Eileen has already telepathically wiggaged it to him."

Here is Good News For Stomach Victims

Some very remarkable results are being obtained by treating stomach, liver and intestinal troubles with pure vegetable oils, which exert a cleansing, soothing and purifying action upon the lower bowels, removing the obstructions of poisonous fecal matter and gases and preventing their absorption by the blood. This done, the food is allowed free passage from the stomach, fermentation ceases and stomach troubles quickly disappear.

George H. Mayr, for twenty years a leading Chicago druggist, cured himself and many of his friends of stomach, liver and intestinal troubles of years' standing by this treatment, and so successful was the remedy he devised that it has since been placed in the hands of druggists all over the country, who have sold thousands of bottles.

Though absolutely harmless, the effect of the medicine is sufficient to convince any one of its remarkable effectiveness, and within 24 hours the sufferer feels like a new person. Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy is now sold here by all druggists.

By C. A. VOIGHT

Amusements

AT THE APOLLO.

The Marcus Loew agency in Chicago wires to the Apollo: "You have an extra fine show for this week in Chas. Terris & Co., the Troy Comedy Four, and Billy Baker."

Chas. Terris & Co. present a dramatic sketch, "The Preacher and the Man," in which Charles Terris portrays the role of priest. It is an unusually good act and is bound to make good here.

The Troy Comedy Four is a male quartet with magnificent voices. They intersperse their songs with droll humor. Billy Baker is a magician who puts a lot of bright comedy into his act.

Fortune Hunter Coming Back.

In order that about two hundred matinee patrons who failed to see the entire picture yesterday because of a delay in receiving the last reel, "The Fortune Hunter" has been engaged for another performance next Wednesday.

AT THE MYERS.

Vaudeville Tomorrow.

One of the best trios on the vaudeville stage is the Florenz Trio which is the feature act at the Myers for Friday, Saturday and Sunday. They present some clever comedy and acrobatic oddities in an act entitled "Fun in a Restaurant."

Livesey and Gonne, vaudeville's daintiest pair, offer a high class entertainment. Both the man and the girl are carefully clothed and gowned which adds much to their act.

Stone and King, singing and talking comedians, complete the bill with songs and witty repartee.

"Trey of Hearts." Friday night the 8th episode of the most thrilling serial motion picture now running will be presented in addition to the vaudeville. These two reels are entitled "The Mock Rose." The Myers orchestra will as usual furnish the musical numbers.

You're the guest; your every want is law with us; our only desire is to satisfy you with better goods than you ask for. We sell only honest merchandise that we know is good value and will treat you right, for we know the only way to keep you for a permanent customer is to do just that. Sincerity Brand Suits For Men

Here are Sincerity Clothes of the latest model and cut for Fall. The weaves are identical with the fabrics that are meeting the greatest favor among the good dressers seen on Michigan Blvd., Chicago, and Fifth Ave., New York. Sincerity Suits for men, $15.00 to $35.00.

CLOTHING

No better gathering of authoritative men's fashions is shown in this vicinity than here. You probably want to know the correct thing before you make your new investment in new clothes.

You'll see the correct thing in men's wear here. You can make sure that what you get here is coming into style rather than going out. The clothing we feature here is SINCERITY CLOTHES that we confidently believe contain more real dollar for dollar value sewn into them than any others that you can buy.

SINCERITY CLOTHES in Fall and Winter weights, for men and young men. Newest patterns and shades, $15 to $35.

SINCERITY OVERCOATS in the shawl collar, Sincerity-bal and other popular types, and in every desirable color, fabric and pattern, $15 to $35.

SHOES

The HUB SPECIAL SHOES for men and young men are made to our order and for us only. In workmanship, in leathers, in style these shoes are as fine as can be made. They're the very perfection of shoe-making. Even the custom bootmaker who charges double and more can't put better materials into his production, for the best materials obtainable are used in these. He can't give you better workmanship, for the skill employed in turning out these shoes is of the highest order, and in the factory where they are made the facilities for doing good work are far greater than the custom bootmaker possesses. If you want a pair of shoes that combine style, elegance, individuality with the best leather and excellent workmanship, why not try a pair of HUB SPECIAL SHOES, $3 to $6.

Sincerity O'Coats and Balmaccans.

Few outer garments have ever startled old dame fashion like the growing popularity of this coat. It's the smartest thing in all the style centers. Best typified in the fabrics brought from foreign shores. Made up with Sincerity Clothes quality workmanship, $15, $18, $20, $25.

FURNISHINGS FOR MEN AND BOYS

Every effort has been made to make our furnishing section the best of its kind, and an important characteristic is the moderate prices.

SILVER BRAND COLLARS AND SHIRTS, SCHOBLE HATS, LEWIS UNDERWEAR, SUCCESS BRAND HOSIERY, ADLER'S DRESS GLOVES, AND NECKWEAR are a few of the different kinds of high grade furnishings that you'll find here, each the best of its kind. Special attention has been given the Boys' Section, where boys' clothing, underwear, hosiery, shirts, caps, blouses, hats and shoes may be found.

The Basement Salesroom This is an innovation to Janesville. Gathered together in this large, well-lighted room will be found MEN'S

WORK SHOES, WORK SHIRTS, OVERALLS, HEAVY UNDERWEAR, MACKINAWs, and there will be many special price concessions given here. A SPECIAL INVITATION IS EXTENDED TO ALL OUR FORMER PATRONS TO ATTEND THIS OPENING
